In Canada I found some high authorities upon educational matters utterly opposed to home lessons, and none are given in the principal schools in Montreal. In New York the home lessons may not be longer than is sufficient to occupy pupil of ordinary capacity two hours, and I noticed that every home lesson was first carefully explained to the pupils by their teacher. I should very much like to see this latter plan generally adopted in our schools. In the Boston schools the girls have no home lessons, and the boys none that are supposed to require more than an hour's study. In some schools in Scotland, and also in some schools in Sydney, I found programmes drawn up showing the work to be Programme ol...
